AM I HINDERING THE WAR? Is the Question Which All of Us Should Be Asking.

One of the most important of all military necessities is transportation in all trenches depends almost entirely upon our ability to feed and maintain them after they are there.

Statisticians tell us that for every man in France we must set aside continnously for his maintenance and equipment as a fighter, shipping facilities amounting to two tons until the war is over. It is easy to translate these figures into millions, and it is apparent at a If So Crippled You Can't Use Arms or glance what this tremendous task means to the railroads.

It is not being fought altogether off the western front, but in the stores, in the kitchens, in the factories, on the farms, and in the hearts of our people. Get the war consciousness. Everything you do helps your government or helps the enemy. Analyze your actions and see which you are doing.

It is the duty of every housewife to bear these facts in mind at all times. These are days when every non-essential must be cut off and every purchase made with a direct thought as to its significance on the battle front. "Am I helping or hindering the war?" must be continuously in our minds.

It should be a matter of pride to the American women to maintain their households as nearly as possible upon food purchased in the surrounding communities. This not only conserves our precious transportation facilities, but also tends to conserve food, because it promotes a more complete utilization of foodstuffs produced.
